

SEEK NEW SOCIETY OF NATIONS AS OUTGROWTH OF GENOA CONFERENCE

Lloyd George Approaches Delegates on Subject of Organization of Powers for Peace—Clash Between France and Russia is Victory for Latter.

Genoa, April 11.—Either the creation of a new society of nations or expansion of the present league of nations will grow out of the international economic conference if the plans of Premier Lloyd George of England succeed it was learned this afternoon.

The French believed that they had persuaded the British statesman to abandon his plans for a guarantee of peace of Europe for a specified number of years, but it is understood that Premier Lloyd George already has approached other delegates on the subject.

Premier Lloyd George's pact or powers was to include both Russia and Germany on common equality with the other signatories. Dr. Benes of Czechoslovakia and other strong supporters of the league of nations, are trying to persuade Lloyd George to strengthen the present league of nations instead of attempting the formation of a new international body.

There are indications that France will agree to the admission of Germany and Russia to the league of nations in order to prevent the creation of a rival pact.

A clash over a disarmament proposal by George Tchitcherine, the Russian soviet foreign minister, which occurred between Tchitcherine and M. Barthou, France, threatened to disrupt the Genoa economic conference, which opened here yesterday with 34 nations represented. M. Tchitcherine declared that Russia was ready to support any proposals that would avoid war or lighten the burden of armament.

M. Barthou said that France categorically refused to discuss disarmament at Genoa. M. Tchitcherine replied that Russia thought France would be ready to discuss this question because M. Briand, the former premier, had said at the Washington conference that Russia's armaments had made disarmament impossible.

The clash between the soviet delegation and the French was generally regarded today as a defeat for France in as much as it forced the French into an open stand on the question of disarmament.

Minister of Justice Barthou, head of the French delegation, said that he considered the incident closed.

"The conference is continuing," said M. Barthou. "I consider that the future the Russians will accept the Cannes program in principle and will not bring up issues either in committee or plenary session not included in the Cannes agenda."

The first commission charged with political affairs convened at the Reale palace at 10:30 o'clock. At the conclusion of the meeting at noon it was announced that a sub-committee to be known as the Russian committee had been formed to work out a program for Russia.

The general commission on political affairs consists of two representatives of the convening powers, two representatives of Germany and Russia and one delegate of the various other powers. The sub-committee of 11 members consists of five representatives of the convening powers, two representatives of Germany and Russia, two of the "little entente" and two neutrals.

M. Barthou, as conciliatory and did not oppose the presence of Russians and Germans on the general committee.

George Tchitcherine, head of the Russian delegation, made a protest claiming that Russia should have two members on the sub-committee. Later Tchitcherine protested against the presence of a Roumanian delegate on the committee on the ground that Roumania had seized Bessarabia, which is controversial territory. The protest was rejected.

(Note. Bessarabia was formerly a Russian province, but after the war was over run by Roumanian troops. Still another protest was lodged by the Russians when they asked that the Japanese delegates be expelled from the meeting on the ground that they were making war against the Russians.)

"Japan intends to remain in this conference, whether, Tchitcherine likes it or not," said Dr. Ispi, of the Japanese delegation.

The representatives of the "little entente" on the sub-committee are Polish and Roumanian delegates. The neutrals are Swedish and Swiss delegates.

As friction developed among the delegations, both Premier Lloyd George and M. Benes of the Czechoslovakian delegation, assumed the roles of pacificators. Lloyd George mediated between the Russians and the Roumanians and Japanese while Benes mediated between the Russians and the French. It is understood that the premier has drawn up a definite set of proposals on Russia which he will propound tomorrow.

It was reported late this afternoon that Tchitcherine and Barthou had another clash in the committee meeting and that both had threatened to withdraw. It was said, however, that both were finally soothed and the matter was smoothed out. Neither, the French nor Russian delegate would discuss the matter.

AMUNDSEN ENROUTE WEST ON TRAIN AS AIRPLANE WRECKED

Clarion, Pa., April 11.—Captain Raold Amundsen, discoverer of the south pole, accompanied by Horace Gade, of New York, will leave here this morning for Cleveland by train, their journey by airplane across the continent to Seattle, having been interrupted at Miami, four miles east of here, late yesterday when the engine of J. L. 6 all-metal monoplane, flying at a height of 6,000 feet, became overheated and was forced to descend. In making the landing, the five members of the party were badly bruised, but not otherwise injured. The plane overturned and one of the wings was badly wrecked.

R. Lewis, of the aerial mail service, pilot of the plane; Lieut. Oscar Omdal, Norwegian flyer, and Ernest Ruhl, mechanic, will remain here and superintend repairs to the machine, which they estimate will take about ten days.

Captain Amundsen said this morning that he would probably not return here, but might await the arrival of the plane in Cleveland.

PRINTER CHIEFS ASK HARDING WHY THEY WERE FIRED

Chiefs of the Government printing office at Washington called at the White House to ask President Harding why he discharged them. Thirty two men were let out "for the good of the service," the President explained. Senator Caraway, Arkansas Democrat, assailed the President for his action in a speech to the Senate. He asserted the Chief Executive acted without legal authority in discharging the men. The first man on the left is James W. Wilmet, deposed director of the Government printing plant.

Long-Delayed Permanent Tariff Bill Is Favorably Reported To Senate Tuesday

For First Time In History of Tariff Making, President Will Be Vested by Bill With Sweeping Discretionary Power to Change and Fix Rates On Imported Articles Or Even Bar Certain Products Entirely

Washington, April 11.—After many months of delay, the so-called permanent tariff bill, radically different in many important respects from the form in which it was passed by the house last year, and revolutionary in some of its new administrative and other vital provisions, was finally reported favorably to the senate today by the Republican majority in control of the senate finance committee.

For the first time in the long, eventful history of tariff making and unmaking, the president would be vested by the bill with sweeping discretionary power to change and fix rates on important articles and to even bar completely foreign products from this country when ever he deemed trade conditions warranted such action on his part.

Another entirely new departure in tariff legislation made by the bill is the establishment of high "protective" duties on agricultural products which have been heretofore invariably placed on the free list in both Republican and Democrat tariff measures.

While the farming and livestock interests of the west and southwest are expected to derive rich benefits from the bill, the manufacturing interests, particularly of the east, find themselves in the unprecedented position of being deprived of their share of compensatory duties because of the impracticability, the bill's authors contend, of their being given rates on manufactured goods proportionate to those imposed upon raw materials upon which they have heretofore had to pay no duty.

It is believed however that despite the pronounced dissatisfaction with which the manufacturing and import-export interests may regard the new tariff system proposed that the "agricultural-tariff bill" an off-shoot of the original "agricultural bloc" will force the passage of the bill eventually in much the same form in which it left the hands of the Republican senators who dominate the senate finance committee.

The "ultimate consumer" is the one who is certain to feel the real "pinch" of the measure. It is estimated that while the bill will approximately between $200,000,000 and $300,000,000 in revenue that it will boost the already high cost of living about $2,000,000,000 or $3,000,000,000 if not more. Almost every thing that the average man or woman eats or wears, nearly every necessity of life, has imposed upon it by the bill a tariff which is expected to materially increase the domestic article while providing it with ample "protection" from its foreign equivalent.

While conceding that the bill would cause living costs to soar in some instances to even world war levels, administration officials contend that the general effect of the proposed "tariff wall" would be beneficial to the country as a whole and would restore prosperity and maintain production and wages at such a high standard as to justify whatever high prices might ensue.

The Democrats are planning to make political capital out of this as well as other features of the bill but the administration leaders profess confidence in their ability to muster ample votes to force it through both the senate and house. Guesses vary in congress as to how long it will take to enact the bill finally into law. Two or three months, at least, are expected to be consumed in the senate by debate on its various provisions.

DAUGHERTY'S NEXT MOVE IN COAL STRIKE BEING WATCHED WITH KEEN INTEREST

Dismissal of Pending Anti-Trust Indictments Against Miners' Officials and Operators is Expected as Result of Attorney-General's Trip West.

Indianapolis, Ind., April 11.—Attorney General Daugherty's next move in his investigation into the possibility of bringing an end to the nation wide coal strike through action of the Washington administration was being watched with extreme interest today.

Having admitted that investigation into pending anti-trust act indictments against more than 200 miners' officials and coal operators comprised a large part of his business in Indianapolis, it was believed that his visit, if successful would result in dismissal of three indictments.

The attorney general let it be known however that he is not certain that dismissal of the wholesale conspiracy charges would be advisable or practical at this time. He made it clear that the government is "not taking sides" in the mine strike.

Daugherty stated he would return to Washington today but that he would again confer with Judge A. B. Anderson of the U. S. district court, with whom he had a two-hour conference late yesterday regarding existing anti-trust cases, before his departure. He stated he would not call upon John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, before going but if Mr. Lewis cared to call on him he would be glad to receive him. Both Lewis and the attorney general said no appointment had been made, but Mr. Daugherty said he would be "glad to chat" with the Union chief.

EVACUATION OF BRITISH TROOPS IS NOT STOPPED

Despite Increased Disorders In Ireland Forces are Moved Out.

London, April 11.—The evacuation of British troops from Ireland is continuing, despite the increased disorders and the threat of civil war between the Irish free state troops and the mutinous faction of the Irish republican army.

Colonial Secretary Winston Churchill, speaking in the house of commons this afternoon, denied that the withdrawal of English military forces from Ireland had been suspended for any reason.

A report that Michael Collins, the leading member of the Irish provisional government at Dublin, had asked the British not to remove any more troops from Ireland, was printed today by the Daily Express.

Members of the Colonial office refused to confirm or deny the report. They insisted that they knew nothing about it. It is regarded as significant that the Irish free state government has not made any formal protest against the reappearance of British soldiers in Dublin where they are doing police duty.

ONE MAN KILLED BY CYCLONE WHICH HITS CHAMPAIGN

Barn is Demolished and Man Perishes Under Debris.

Urbana, April 11.—Bonney DeLong, 23, was killed at his home near Mutual, in Champaign County, when the cyclone of yesterday evening demolished a barn he was occupying, burying him beneath the debris.

DeLong was standing on the porch of his home across the road watching the storm, and believing it over, with his brother, Roy DeLong, went to the barn, where they heard the pigs squealing. They had just entered the barn when a rush of wind whirled the building from its foundations and pinned both boys under 60 tons of hay.

Roy DeLong was standing about ten feet from his brother when the barn collapsed. He groped his way out of the debris and then went to the aid of his brother. Farmers living nearby were also called into the rescue work and it was necessary to saw down through the hay to reach the young man. He was not taken out until eight o'clock last night and his chest and abdomen were crushed and his legs broken.

The barn in which DeLong met his death was a bank barn, built on a hill. It was taken completely off its foundation and carried ten feet. Live stock in the barn was also killed. Other farmers in the vicinity suffered damage to barns and other out-buildings during the wind storm.

SALES NECESSARY AND THEY MUST BE FOUGHT FOR

Today, probably as at no other period, merchants need SALES—need to stimulate buying, to move, and keep moving their merchandise.

But as a rule, sales don't just happen—today also, sales must be bought and fought for—we must furnish adequate reasons as to why the public should buy now.

And there is not much doubt that the local merchant will find the local newspaper an important factor in bringing back his sales—in fact, the newspaper WILL do this if he will but advertise properly and persistently.

It is important to remember that there's a wide gulf between good advertising and anything short of it that money or stocks cannot bridge.

THREE ARE INJURED AS CYCLONE SWEEPS PARTS OF COUNTIES MONDAY

Windstorm Strikes Springfield and Takes North-easterly Direction Causing Heavy Damage Over Clark County and Extends in Northern Greene

Springfield, April 11.—A cyclone, which entered the southern part of Clark County near Enon, and took a north-easterly course, striking the city, caused heavy property loss all over the county, and injured three people at New Moorefield, north of here, yesterday afternoon at five o'clock.

The cyclone swept a narrow path from Harshmanville, east of Dayton, along the Yellow Springs road, swooping suddenly into Bath Township, Greene County, where it caused $1,000 worth of damage on the Fred Shellabarger farm, and then swerved northward through Enon, Clark County, destroying outbuildings on the farms of Mrs. George Huntington and George Denny, demolishing farm buildings on the O. T. Drake farm, uprooting an orchard on that farm and killing two sheep belonging to Mr. Drake.

The cyclone seemed to touch intermittently over the county next striking in Springfield, where it demolished the George Peters' garage, near the Spring Grove site, and damaged his residence, entailing loss estimated at $8,000. Mr. Peters and employees in the garage next to the Peters residence, were in a shed next to the garage which was the only part of that building left untouched when the storm had swept on. The garage roof from which was suspended 15,000 pounds of overhead machinery, was carried 200 feet in the air, and the walls caved in. A heavy beam was forced through the window of the Peters residence, glaze torn from the roof, plastering knocked from the walls, and furniture thrown about inside the house.

On Sunset avenue and along the Selma pike, residences and out buildings were demolished, trees were uprooted and telephone lines suffered seriously. At the farm home of Grover Fleming, the house was partially unroofed and a two-by-four plank thrown through the kitchen. The cyclone then jumped northeast to near New Moorefield, where it demolished the home of Jesse Barcafer, catching Mrs. Barcafer and her three children in the ruins, although they escaped with only slight injuries and are recovering at the Springfield City Hospital.

The Barcafer house was a new seven-room frame dwelling only occupied since March 1. Mr. Barcafer was returning home when he rounded a bend in the road after the storm, and saw his house in ruins. Mrs. Barcafer and her three children were in the kitchen of their home, when the storm struck. Mrs. Barcafer crawled from beneath the debris, and rescued the three children, one of whom was taken from under the kitchen cabinet, and was covered with flour.

Mrs. Barcafer managed to drag herself against the force of the wind to where their only cow was bawling, after saving the children, but before she reached the wrecked barn, she was blown against the orchard trees 150 feet away and was found there by neighbors after the storm had passed.

Seeing the approaching storm, Will Frey, of near New Moorefield, urged his wife to leave the house with him and run. Mrs. Frey argued that it would be best to remain in the house, but her husband persuaded her to run across fields out of the path of the twister. From a vantage point across the field they watched their house crumble like a pack of cards, under the force of the wind. A horse was thrown 25 to 30 feet in the air.

Storm Hits Shellabarger Farm In Greene County

Loss estimated at $1,000 was entailed to buildings, on the Fred Shellabarger farm, on the old Xenia pike, in Bath Township, one half-mile from the Clark county line Monday when a storm of cyclonic dimensions swept over Clark County, the tail of it extending into the northern part of this county.

The cyclone swept this section of the state at about five o'clock, accompanied by a heavy rainfall, the entire storm lasting only a few minutes. Heavy damages were reported particularly from Clark County with indications that the wind storm only touched slightly on northern parts of Greene County.

At the Shellabarger farm, the cyclone tore every chimney from the house, the bricks playing havoc with the slate roof, demolishing practically all of it. The wind swept through the barn lot, tearing the roof from the auto shed, and ruining the top of a big automobile, tore part of the roofs off the tool shop and hog pen, broke in the barn doors and caused other damage to the farm buildings, without killing any of the stock. The Shellabarger orchard was practically ruined, trees in some instances being torn up by the roots and in other cases blown over. Directly north of the Shellabarger farm, there was a cyclone reported indicating that the cyclone cut a narrow swath.

On the O. T. Drake farm, near Enon, in Clark County, the storm also played havoc with farm buildings, tearing the roofs from barnyard structures, and demolishing the orchard trees, and knocking down the top of a big automobile, tore part of the roofs off the tool shop and hog pen, broke in the barn doors and caused other damage to the farm buildings, without killing any of the stock. The Shellabarger orchard was practically ruined, trees in some instances being torn up by the roots and in other cases blown over. POSSIBILITY OF REVOLUTION IN IRELAND FEARED Trouble Anticipated Over Easter In Many Sections of Land.

Dublin, April 11.—The possibility of a counter revolution against the Irish provisional government of Eastertide hangs over all Ireland today like a pall of darkness. This ominous Easter will be the sixth anniversary of the famous Dublin uprising when violent fighting swept the city and an Irish republic was formally declared.

Another Eastertide finds Ireland an armed camp and Dublin a hot bed of war preparation.

Roderick O'Connor, formerly chief engineer of the Irish republican army and now commander in chief of the Irish rebels has established great headquarters here. It is under heavy guard of armed troops. Long lines of military lorries stand outside. Dispatch bearers constantly arrive and depart.

All of the district commandants of the munitioners have been summoned here for a council of war.

"The army will be heard from again," declared Cathal Brugha, one of the chief leaders of the anti-Irish free state forces.

WOMAN IS SLASHED TO DEATH IN EAST

New York, April 11.—Slashed to death by a "Jack the ripper" the nude body of a woman later identified as Miss Helen Tracy, 40 years old, was found lying face downward in the ground floor hallway of the big double deck apartment house at 17 Catherine Street, early today. A crimson trail leading out into the street showed that the body had been dragged into the house from the outside.

The woman's clothing, consisting of a cheap checked, gingham dress, a black undershirt and a pair of black shoes, lay piled on the floor a few feet from the body.

"ITALIAN OPERA" ON MUSIC CLUB PROGRAM

The program of the Xenia Woman's Music Club, given at the home of Mrs. Mary M. Meredith on North King Street, Monday afternoon, was marked with an Italian trend, characterizing the program as one of the charming of the club meetings. The program of the afternoon was large of Mrs. Harry Armstrong, gave the paper "Noted Opera of Europe and Italian Opera," the first number on the program given by Mrs. Lawrence Shields contributed two selections, "The Barber of Seville" from Rossini and "Romanza" from Verdi by Mercavante. Re-hearing on the telephone rates to be put in existence from Xenia exchanges, has been granted the Springfield & Xenia Telephone Company and the Ohio Bell Telephone Company by the state public utilities commission, it was announced in Columbus Tuesday.

The Ohio Bell Company asked for a re-hearing several weeks ago, but it was believed at that time that the motion for a re-hearing was simply an attempt to get the case into the state supreme court, much the same as a motion for a new trial in common pleas court in a civil case.

It was expected that the utilities commission would turn down the motion for a new trial, and let the companies carry the case into the supreme court. Instead the commission has granted the re-hearing and has fixed the hearing date as April 18.

MICHIGAN FACED BY FLOOD DISASTER AS STREAMS RISE

Detroit, April 11.—Northern Michigan counties were faced today by the worst flood disaster in many years as rivers and creeks swelled by the fast melting snows and the heavy rains of the last 48 hours over spread their banks, inundated thousands of acres of property and swept away trees, fences and buildings.

One man is dead and a score have had narrow escapes from being carried off in the whirling flood, which is reported still rising. In the western section of the upper peninsula several inches of hard packed snow which still remain are being melted rapidly, adding to the already swollen streams of the section.

Dirt roads throughout Michigan are impassable and several stretches of concrete highway have been undermined in spots or closed by washed out bridges and culverts.

Guy Stanlon, 34, of Onaway, the dead man, was killed while fighting back the flood at Lower Michigan, where the Lost river has risen over its banks and is threatening half of Presque Isle county.

Railroads have suspended service north of Bolton and at Menominee continued warm weather today threatened a disastrous continuance of the flood which two inches of rainfall in the last 48 hours caused here.

HEARING OF LEES CASE ADJOURNED UNTIL LATER DATE

Because the hearing of the divorce and alimony action of Lona Estelle Lees, against O. M. Lees in Common Pleas Court could not be finished Monday, the hearing had to be adjourned until a later date.

Although there were a number of witnesses on the stand Monday, the testimony of Mrs. Lees, the plaintiff in the action, occupied the greater part of the day, as she was returned to the stand several times, for examination or cross examination.

Lees, defendant in the suit in which his wife asks for divorce, custody of their son, alimony and distribution of the property, did not appear in court, but it is understood his deposition will be taken at Orlando, Fla., where he is now located and will be introduced when the hearing is continued.

The plaintiff charges her husband with cohabiting with Mary With, a former employee of the Interurban restaurant and of the Atlas Hotel, formerly operated by Lees, and she attempted to prove illicit relations with the woman in her testimony Monday. Mrs. Lees testified that when her husband went to Tampa, Fla., he borrowed $2,000 from his father, and told her he paid $4,000 for a one-third interest in a real estate business in Tampa. She testified that all Lees got for his $4,000 was an interest in two desks, two electric fans and other office equipment, and that she never heard of the firm doing any business.

ELEANOR GRACE SAYS

I am just going to keep on nosing about until I find out what a lot of these new colors are that manufacturers are using to whet our curiosity and make us ask questions. Now there is canna, that's easy, as its just the color of a red canna blossom. Then pigeon is a grey that is very near the shade of a pigeon's wing, but Mira had me all at sea until I was shown a lovely blouse marked that color that was just the shade of a yellow jonquil. Am going to keep on until I know all these charming new shades.

For the Luncheon or dinner table honoring the bridal pair or for the wedding table itself we have the most attractive little place cards in the form of the veil draped bride and the dignified groom. There are also many other pretty designs appropriate for the occasion. They cost only 5 cents each.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a Harmless Substitute

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. These little olive-colored tablets are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel.

The pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel. Let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "lousy" and "heavy." They "clear" clouded brain and "perk up" the spirits. 15c and 30c.

A SWEET LITTLE BABY BOY

Makes a Bright Spot in Every Home. A Comfort in Years to Come

Park Rapids, Minnesota.—"I have taken your medicine—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—when I was a girl for pains and before and after my marriage. I now have a sweet little baby boy and will send you his picture if you wish to publish it. My sisters also take your medicine and find it a great help, and I recommend it to those who offer before their babies are born."

Mrs. Wm. Johnson, Box 155, Park Rapids, Minn.

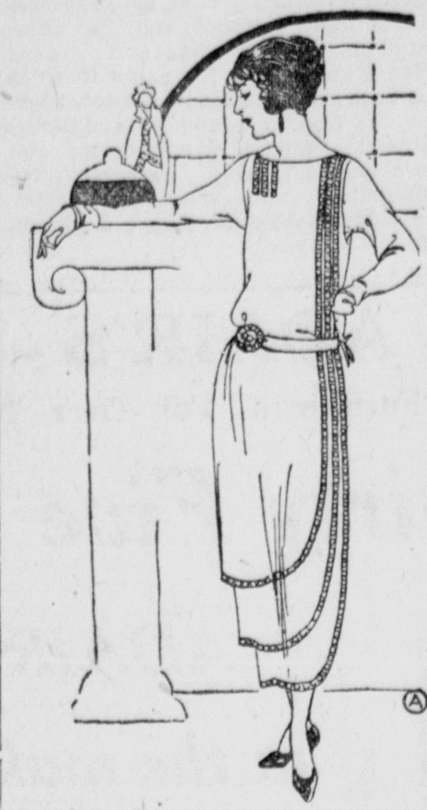

To marry and arrive at middle age without children is a great disappointment to many women. Think of the joy and comfort other women have in their children as they grow older.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped to bring great happiness to many families by restoring women to health. Often the childless home is due to a run down condition of the wife, which may be helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It brought health and happiness into the home of Mrs. Johnson. Why not to yours?

Styles BY LENORE

PARIS. Except, perhaps, to the restless seeker after constant novelty, the fashions extremely encouraging for there is a of the present season must be ex complete absence of any revolutionary tendencies.

Skirts are not too long. Day dresses are still straight, and they may be short. For example, nearly all the tailored dresses in the Jenny collection are but a trifle below shoe-top length. Evening dresses reach to the ankle.

The prevailing neckline is still the bateau, or boat shaped.

Waistlines are low, often featured without a girdle, but defined by folds or a wrinkle up of the material of the skirt, and finished with a metal, bead or embroidered motif at the side.

Sleeves are long, and some of the most attractive are those that taper down to extreme snugness at the wrist as in the dark blue red dress illustrated above—an excellent design by the way for a stouthead figure. The long, slenderizing lines are accented by steel trimming, and the circular ornament is also of steel.

PASSOVER OBSERVED BY JEWS THURSDAY

The Jewish Passover this year begins Thursday, April 13 and Seder night falls on Wednesday. This festival is regarded as one of the most beautiful in the category of Jewish holy days. It commemorates the deliverance of the children of Israel from the yoke of Egyptian task masters and the occasion is observed generally by the Jews.

Speaking of the festival, the Ohio Jewish Chronicle has the following to say:

"Every Jewish child knows and loves every incident of the Exodus story. The children never cease to speak of Moses. They delight to recount the happenings in his life. They can almost see the little child in the basket placed among the bulrushes to escape death at the hands of Pharaoh's servants. They thrill over his rescue by the princess; they visualize his life in the palace of the kingdom.

"They are enthralled by the vision of the burning bush, of the divine message which comes to Moses. They follow with eager interest the subsequent events of the appearance of Moses and Aaron before Pharaoh, the miracles and the plagues and finally the hasty exodus of the children of Israel from the land of Egypt into the wilderness.

"Celebration of the festival is primarily meant to inform the children of this great event in Israel's history and to inspire them with loyalty and love for faith and people."

ANSWERED LETTERS

Blue-Eyes—The mixture of peroxide and ammonia will bleach the superfluous hair, but it will also make your skin feel more dry than it is already. There is no reason why you should avoid the use of a cream on your skin, as it will not cause a growth of hair if your creams are made from fine oils. The hard water you are using on your face is aggravating this dry condition, which could easily cause the itching sensation. You can soften the water with a few drops of ammonia or catch enough rain water to use on face and throat; however, your skin is in need of a cream and if you will massage a little into it every day for a week, you will find much of your discomfort gone.

Never allow an excess of cream to remain on the face as it is this which accumulates soil and with a heavy cream made from animal fats, the soil and oils from a fertilizer for a hair growth. The skin will only absorb what it needs so there is nothing gained by allowing a surplus to remain. Wipe off this extra cream and close the pores either with ice and rub or dashes of cold water. This treatment will keep the skin soft and pliable so it will not wrinkle. It will also make it fine in texture, since the pores contract again after they have been cleaned.

C. F. S.—These red lumps that come under the skin are eruptions that do not come to the surface and relieve themselves in discharges. The blood absorbs them again causing a toxic condition. Consult the doctor.

D. M. F.—Your red hands may come from imperfect elimination or from wearing a corset or waistband that is too tight. Any of the lotions made from honey and almonds will Marjorie—The use of pumice stone on the arms will not decrease the growth of hair. If this hair is noticeable bleach it with peroxide. If you shave fuzzi you encourage it into a stiff growth, but if you leave it alone it will never be any worse than it is at present and, when bleached, it is not a disfigurement.

Drinking plenty of water between meals will keep the system flushed and the only tendency this has for increasing one's weight is that of helping to keep the system clean. This could act both ways. Some persons would weigh more because their general health had been improved, with others the excess fat could be sloughed off and the weight thereby reduced.

When "No" Is Good Sometimes Isn't It Better At All Times?

A great many people have learned to say "No" to tea or coffee at noon and at night—learned it at the cost of jumping nerves and disturbed digestion.

Thousands of others who passed through that stage have learned to say "No" to tea and coffee all the time, and have found a most satisfactory "Yes" in Postum.

Postum's full, rich flavor delights the taste and meets all the demands for a hot, mealtime drink, and it contains no element that can harm anybody. Even little children may share in the delights of a hot cup of Postum with any meal.

Whether or not the thein in tea or the caffeine in coffee has begun to serve warnings on you, you can profit by the experience of others and by the information which any doctor can give you—and find charm without harm in Postum.

Suppose you make the test for ten days, with well-made Postum, and compare the "feel" with your former experience with tea and coffee.

Your grocer sells both forms of Postum: Instant Postum (in tins) made instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages of larger bulk, for those who prefer to make the drink while the meal is being prepared) made by boiling for 20 minutes.

SOCIAL SERVICE HAS 101 CASES IN MONTH OF MARCH

One hundred and one cases were under the care of the Social Service League, during the month of March, according to the report, submitted by Mrs. Carrie I. Robertson, executive secretary of the League, at the meeting of the Executive Committee, Monday night.

"Food, clothing, and coal to the value of $262.50, was administered by the League during the month," was the statement of Mrs. Robertson in her report.

"Milk was given daily to 12 families, in four of these cases, there being tuberculosis. Medicine was bought in one case of illness. An X-ray examination was paid for, that a possible case of a crippled child might be voided."

One case of civilian vocational training was arranged with the State Department of Education, by the Social Service League, was included in the report.

League cooperated with the Board, Red Cross, The R. A. Company, The H. and A. W. Company, Police Department, Government, Justice of the Peace, County Infirmary, Juvenile Court, State Welfare Department and the State Educational Department, during the month.

Mrs. Harold Whittington has been employed by the League, as Public Health nurse, to visit the needy families of the city for two months, it was announced Tuesday.

WINS RECOGNITION AT MIAMI WHERE SHE IS STUDENT

Miss Josephine Armstrong, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Armstrong of this city, who is a student at Miami University at Oxford, Ohio, was the subject of an interesting account in the "Whose Who" Column, of "The Miami Student," the organ of the school, in a recent issue.

The article, says in part: "Josephine Armstrong, president of the Girls Athletic Association, has won a place in about every line of work on the campus. She is wearing an 'M' sweater for participating in basketball, baseball and hockey. She has been a member of the Madrigal Club for several years and was head of the Social department of the Y. W. C. A. last year. She was elected president of the Athletic Association last spring and this year the Athletic Board, under her supervision has instituted a new system of points whereby a fairer opportunity is given for the winning of an 'M.'"

Miss Armstrong is a member of the Student Council and Student Senate this year. She has served on numerous association committees and chapel choir. She is a member of the Mu Beta Psi, the honorary musical fraternity, Phi Kappa, the honorary senior women's organization and the Chi Omega sorority."

HENRY CLEWS Weekly Financial Review

The victory of Premier Lloyd George in the House of Commons on April 3 practically assures the testing of his plans for settlement of the financial questions which have been proposed for the Genoa Conference. That Conference opens on Monday next. It should certainly help to bring about a basis for working out controversies relating to exchange and international investment. Mr. Lloyd George's recommendation that the exchange be dealt with through a revaluation of European currencies resulting in new parities is the most definite proposal that has come from an authoritative source thus far. If accepted, it should result in an important clarification of exchange and investment conditions.

Industrial Optimism.

The pronounced advance in the price of stocks during the past week has centered around the leading industrial shares in which productive prospects are now showing marked improvement. It is not strange that in these circumstances increases in orders and larger activity at mills should have an important reflex effect upon quotations. This has been very noteworthy in the steel, motor, oil and other groups. In steel, mill production is now said to be fully up to 70 per cent of capacity, while in the motor industry orders are such as to insure normal operation. Studebaker's first quarter shows this return to prosperity and others are encouraging in varying degrees. The oil industry has ignored past rumors of prospective cuts in prices and has discounted reports concerning unfavorable earnings statements, said still to be forthcoming. Physical volume of production is already unquestionably far above what it was at this time last year, even though in some industries the increase has been less marked than in others. Automobile accessories stocks have naturally gained through the demand for motors and in like manner the so-called specialty issues, which depend for their demand upon the activity of other lines of trade, have profited from the better buying disposition of the public.

Continued Growth of Rail Values

As during the recent weeks the growth of railway values continues to be very marked. A showing on behalf of Class I roads, which indicates a net operating income for February of $44,000,000, as against a deficit of $6,500,000 for the same month a year ago is the latest influence tending to demonstrate their improved earnings position. Comparative figures also show a very pronounced gain in earnings even over recent months, while the completion of several refinancing undertakings has largely strengthened the market situation for certain issues. This bettered railroad outlook continues to produce a helpful reflex effect upon the equipment companies whose shares have correspondingly advanced in recent trading. The public utility stocks have been able to hold their gains, and are well warranted in so doing by reason of economies of operation and the more assured earnings outlook which appears to exist.

Coal Strike Minimized.

One of the interesting features of the week has been the failure of coal strike controversies to exert a depressing effect. In some quarters, in fact, the strike is regarded as contributing to better values, because of the belief that it will result in a more favorable adjustment for the companies. The New England textile strikes bid fair to drag themselves out over a long period, but chances now favor the gradual restoration of the mills to operating efficiency, with out any serious compromise with labor. If this should result in a lower cost of production, it would put these companies into a stronger position as competitors, and would materially help to overcome a situation which in some aspects has been rather threatening for them for some time past. The effort to obtain Government intervention in the coal strike thus far shows little indication of success, although if worst should come to worst, the public operation of the mines in order to protect the fuel supplies of the consumers at large might eventually become necessary.

Strong Financial Situation.

Although there has been no further reduction in discount rates, money, taking the country as a whole, has continued abundant and cheap. The position of the Federal Reserve System was never stronger and current reports from the interior show a distinctly improved position of country banks. Thus far, the commercial demand for funds has not become notably larger, a fact which leaves a greater supply of credit available for investment operations. In foreign exchange, the higher values of nearly all European currencies are undoubtedly due to a more stable condition of international trade coupled with the belief that more normal conditions are gradually being established. Recession of the mark is, of course, due to the uncertainties surrounding Germany's position, but announcement that the new programme of forced loans and taxation has been adopted is having a stabilizing effect.

Market Review and Outlook

The great activity which has prevailed in the market during the past week and the sharp advances which have occurred, have from time to time encouraged more or less profit-taking. Nevertheless, prompt recovery from temporary reactions has shown the inherent soundness of the market position and the fact that buyers are in excess of the numbers of sellers. Under ordinary circumstances the market might reasonably count on a fair-sized setback, and would, in the long run, be none the worse for it. # MEDICAL BOARD ENJOINED IN CASE BY CHIROPRACTORS

Cincinnati, April 11.—Insisting that a law gives them the right to examination by a board of examiners selected from their own school and denying the right of the state medical board to subject them to the same examination as students of medicine and surgery, suit has been filed in common pleas court here on behalf of the chiropractors in the state to enjoin the action.

The suit is against the members of the Ohio state medical board, H. Platter, secretary of the board; Anna Dietrick, its agent, and Vernon Riegel, director of the department of education and superintendent of public instruction for the state.

Hatching Young Onions From Sets

Young onions are a standby of almost every spring vegetable garden and there is just one way to get them early. That is to plant onion sets. While the seed onions are coming on to give a later crop of young onions and through the thinning process to give the plants room to mature the big bulbs to be stored for winter, the set onions are coming along and furnishing the tender young onions for the table.

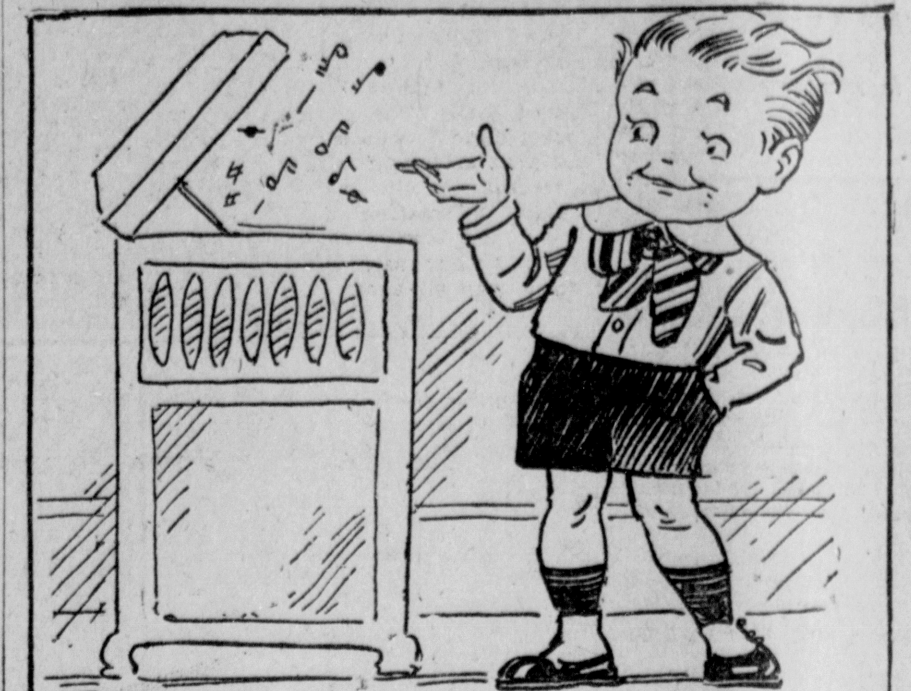

The onion set is made for the chief purpose of producing young onions. It is better not to try to grow big onions from sets, as the set has completed most of its life work although an abbreviated and arrested career, when it is put into the ground, and nine cases out of ten if not pulled and eaten in its young and tender growth will shoot up to seed.

Onion sets are merely prematurely matured onions of any type. The crop is produced in this manner: The seed is sown thickly and on poorer soil than would be used ordinarily for onion growing. The thick sowing and poor soil is used in order that they may reach the limit of their growth in their surroundings quickly. They, of course, are grown later than ordinarily. As soon as they have matured their growth they are dug and harvested, to be planted the following spring. Small sets are better than the larger ones, for the larger set the more quickly it will finish its life cycle by sending up a seed stalk which ends its edible career.

Onion sets come in yellow, white and red, all dependent upon the variety of onion seed which was sown for the sets. The most convenient thing about onion sets for young onions is that they are not so particular about soil conditions and a gardener can harvest young onions from them long before a crop can be gathered from seed.

Regulating Your Traveling Expenses

WITH the all-important question of financing and preliminary arrangements off his mind, the person who has definitely determined to cross the Atlantic this summer sits himself down before maps and guide-books and endeavors to plan with some little accuracy an attractive itinerary. For a moment this may seem a confusing problem. The allurements of this trip or of that come forward in conflicting fascination.

There are two main items to be kept in mind when planning a trip—the time you have to spend, and the money. These are equally important, and are equally within your control. As to the money, you can regulate your traveling expenses in Europe better than you can at home, for the reason that a greater range of prices is offered you, for acceptable transportation and accommodation.

We will assume that at the beginning our tourist has decided not to take one of the attractive all-expense round-trip journeys offered by the tourist agencies, but wants to go "on his own." If he should come to a town of unusual appeal to him, he wishes to be free to stay there, an extra day, an extra week, an extra month, if he so wills. He has said good-bye to all schedules and too definite itineraries. An itinerary is valuable, as far as it goes—and no farther. In other words the intelligent procedure is first to attain in your own mind that which you wish most to see in Europe and then, that foundation step taken, to study in some little detail that object of your travels. Is it Spain? Is it Italy? Is it Great Britain? Is it France? Is it the Low Countries? Or a combination of these, and others?

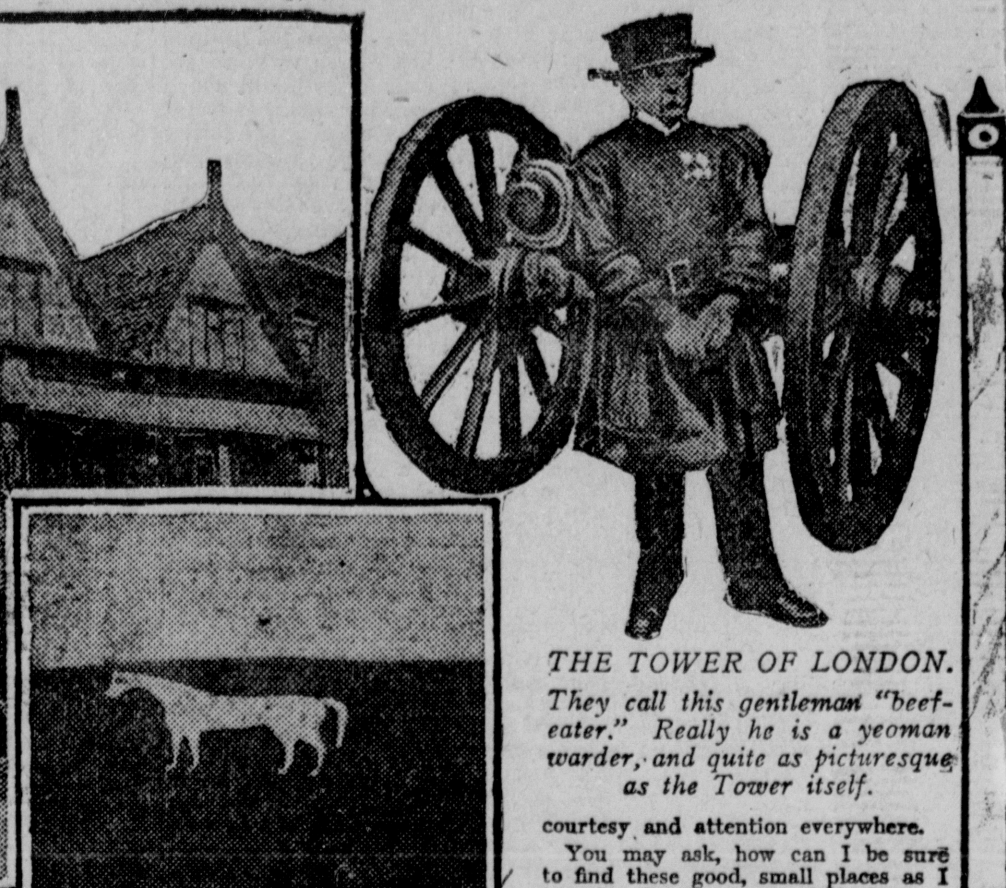

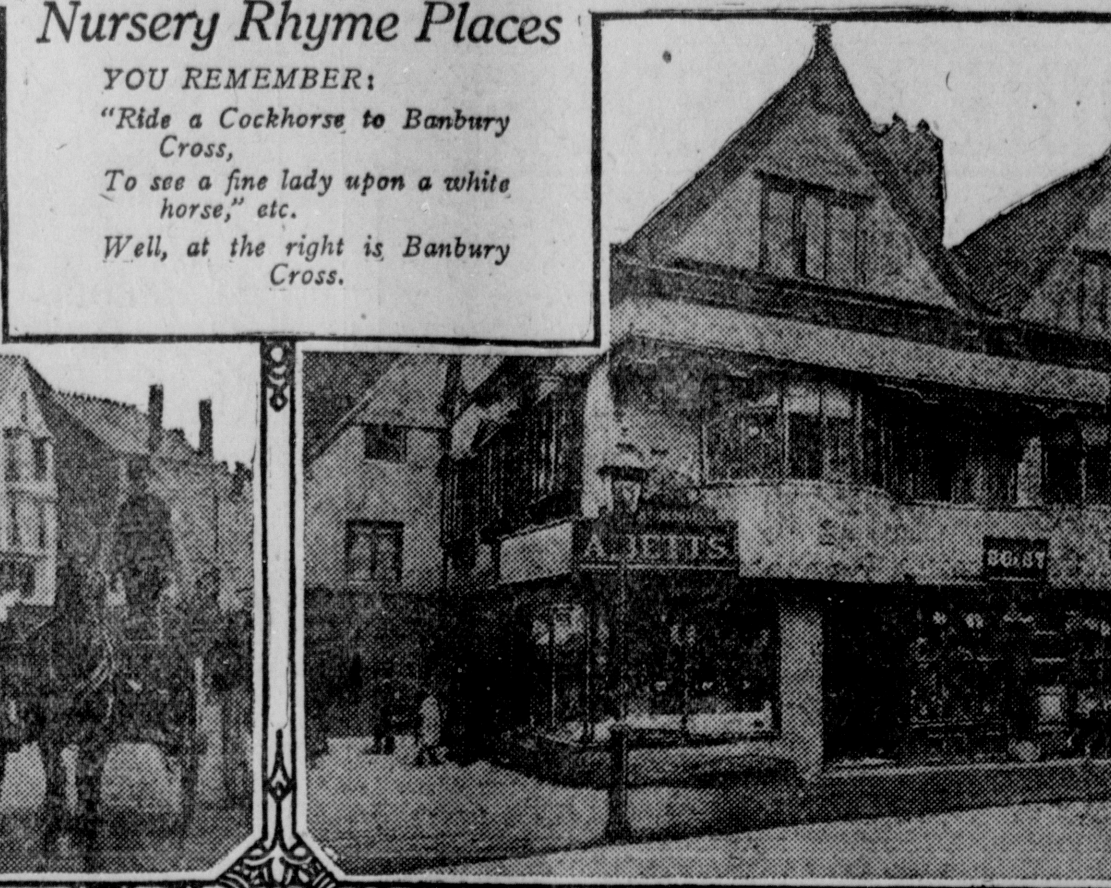

With this definitely fixed in your mind and with it the length of time you will be able to spend in Europe you pick up again the sailing schedules of your favorite steamship company—which usually are announced far in advance and begin to find out how much time you are going to have on the other side of the ocean. That is not difficult to discover.

Time and Costs on Ocean.
The de luxe ships, like the Olympic and Majestic, make the ocean passage in six to seven days, and you pay $275 minimum for your ticket. Most of the Liverpool ships take eight days, and the Continental ships, with Antwerp as a terminus, nine days. The Mediterranean voyage is from 12 to 14 days. Cabin class ships cross in nine days to Liverpool and 10 to 11 days to Hamburg. Fares for cabin class are as low as $125.

Nursery Rhyme Places

YOU REMEMBER:

"Ride a Cockhorse to Banbury Cross,
To see a fine lady upon a white horse," etc.

THE TOWER OF LONDON.
They call this gentleman "beef-eater." Really he is a yeoman warder, and quite as picturesque as the Tower itself.

You may ask, how can I be sure to find these good, small places as I travel? Don't try to find them in advance. Ask for them as you go along. Tourist agencies, steamship offices, travel bureaus, banks even, will give you facts to start upon. When you have stopped at one, the proprietor will give you the name of a house of corresponding character in the next city you are to visit. Thus, at Florence, you can learn what house to seek in Milan, and so on. And the information is always reliable.

I have already referred to the fact that you can travel first-class upon a French railway train at the astonishing figure of but a tiny fraction over two cents a mile, American money. As I have said, you would not do so badly in second-class; although third-class practically anywhere upon the Continent is quite beneath the consideration of any one of us who considers himself in the least wise fastidious. On the other hand I have ridden in third-class carriages in Great Britain which both in comfort and cleanliness exceeded many of the day coaches of branch lines and local trains of American railroads. And last summer I found in operation between London and Brighton, third-class Pullmans—reserved seat parlor cars of great comfort and attractiveness.

Motor car travel, whether in a car which you have brought over from the United States—and a good many travel-wise folk do that very same thing—or in one that is rented, by the mile or kilometre, the day, the week or the month, of course, costs very much more than rail travel; but you can travel all over the British Isles on motor stages at very low rates.

Air travel nowadays is well stabilized and commercialized throughout all of Western Europe, is considerably more expensive than either of these, but a great time saver. The question of cost comes quickly, however, to that of prevailing exchange—a vital factor to the present-day traveler in Europe.

(Next article: How Exchange Helps Traveler.)

You will also remember:
"As I was going to St. Ives
I met a man with seven wives."
And so this is St. Ives. Maybe the man in the cart is a descendant of the hero of the jingle.

There are no charges on a steamer except for your ticket, but there are certain expenses in the way of personal purchases, and customary fees to stewards, that must be counted on. The average passenger on a de luxe ship spends about $30 for fees on a voyage. His smoking room charges are what he makes them.

On the average large ship just under the de luxe class, fees are a little less than on the great flyers. For example, you give your table steward (waiter) a pound note, or a $5 bill, whereas on the biggest ships the fee may reach two pounds, or at least $7.50. A similar tip will suffice your room steward. Lesser gratuities, based largely on the amount of special service rendered, will be most acceptable to the library steward, the deck steward and the bath steward, "boots" and the stewardess. The barber may be recompensed on each individual transaction; but the others named, however, never by this method.

Land Journeys and Costs.
Upon the land portions of your journey it is not, of course, possible to fix any such fairly exact estimates of your expenditures. You must first decide in what countries you wish to travel in order to gauge your expenses, for travel is far cheaper in some than in others, owing to the difference in the rates of exchange for the dollar.

So you ask yourself how best may I travel across the Continent and through the British Isles? Must I use the train or do I dare a motor car? Probably a lingering desire or two to ride in a long-distance aeroplane comes into your mind. You certainly would like a spin in a seaplane.

All these things can be arranged. It largely is a question of finance. You know best yourself how much money you can and will spend upon the land portions of your trip to Europe. You can live meagerly at $10 a day in a London or Paris guided hotel, or comfortably at $2 a day in a small inn.

It is, perhaps, enough to know that over there, more than in the United States, you can adjust your outlay as I have said, to the amount of money that you wish to spend. Remember that there are—different from us—three classes of railroad travel and even more than three classes of hotels and restaurants. Without any feelings whatsoever of personal opprobrium or degradation, you can choose any class that best suits your inclination—or your pocketbook.

When Second-class is Good

We Americans are apt to have a most exaggerated personal feeling of sensitiveness in regard to this word, "class." It is hard for us to conceive ourselves going "second-class" even, in anything.

In Continental Europe, at least—in London, too—things are different. In both London and Paris, in Brussels and Berlin, in Switzerland and Italy, and along the Riviera, there are many small hostels, or pensions, which might be put down as third-class, or even fourth-class, which nevertheless are distinctly charming. Unpretentious, as they are architecturally, they leave little to be desired, either in cuisine or in service.

I recall not many months ago coming into the little city of Carcassonne in Southern France. A fellow traveler upon the inbound train had warned me of the charges of a fashionable tourist hotel there. I decided that I would have none of that. So, when I came out of the doors of the railway station, I purposely chose, at the far end of the cab rank, the most dilapidated and the least pretentious of a dozen or more hotel busses that were aligned there.

We speeded through the streets of the town and came presently to a disreputable and delightful small tavern as I might ever hope to find outside of a Stanley J. Weyman romance. With a fine flourish the driver backed his horse-drawn omnibus against the block in the courtyard. The proprietor himself came hastening down the steps to greet me. He was, without so delicate and charming an old gentleman, that I would not let him touch my heavy valises. That night I slept in a little room over the inn's ancient stable; no longer a stable, but an up-to-date garage.

THE WHITE HORSE, on the chalk downs by Salisbury Plains is a picturesque memorial of Alfred the Great's decisive victory over the Danes in A.D. 878. It was formed by stripping the turf from the chalk. The horse is 175 feet from head to tail, 107 feet high from feet to shoulder, with eyes 25 feet in circumference.

Crude? Yes. But crudeness is a sort of genuine perfection. My bed was high and old-fashioned; the pure linen of its sheets had almost the slipperiness of horse-hair. It had five mattresses of wondrous comfort; four to sleep upon and one to sleep under. There was a hard-wood floor and an electric reading lamp over the head of the bed; no running water, but an exquisite cleanliness everywhere. And the cost of the room but fifty-six cents a day, American money.

As the room went, so went the rest of the tavern. The food not merely good, not merely excellent, but superb. The meals at a fixed price (about eighty cents apiece) and

FARM WAGES SHOW DECLINE OF $8 TO $10 ON THE MONTH

The average farm wage on April 1 for the State of Ohio was $32 a month which is a reduction of from $8 to $10 a month from the wages paid a year ago, according to C. J. West, Agricultural Statistician for the State-Federal Crop Reporting Service. The supply of labor in most sections of the State is amply sufficient for all needs so that normal labor conditions on Ohio farms are not far away.

If one thinks of the unemployed in the cities, as available there would appear to be a large surplus of farm labor but many of the unemployed are not sufficiently skilled to be of much use on a farm.

The 20,000 and more tractors together with a general farm equipment of more intricate machinery gives rise to a farm demand for more labor which is trustworthy and skilled in the use of machinery. But this machinery has greatly increased the acreage which one man can cultivate so that fewer farm hands are needed than was required ten years ago. The farms which are not mechanically equipped require a type of farm labor which was common some years ago before the movement from the farms to the cities set in and this type was that of the man who could plow a straight furrow, husk or cut corn and do other jobs which the laboring man of today cannot do. The result is that today some men who have skill in farm work are of great use on a farm and hence the great body of the unemployed in the cities are not desired by farmers as hired men.

ATROCITIES LAID AT SEMENOFF'S DOOR BY U. S. OFFICER

Frankfort, Ky., April 11.—Reports and records kept by him while Commander of the Twenty-seventh United States Infantry in Verkhne-Udinsk Siberia, showing troubles American forces had with General Gregorie Semenov, Ataman of the Siberian Cossacks, and of atrocities committed by Semenov Commanders last night were taken to Washington by Lieutenant Colonel Charles H. Morrow, who was summoned to appear Wednesday before the Senate Committee on Immigration and Labor.

When General Semenov was arrested in New York last week, Col. Morrow sent a telegram to Secretary of State Charles E. Hughes in which he declared that Semenov was "the cowardly and unscrupulous enemy of America" conducting through the press a "propaganda of base slander and falsehood"; that his troops had "treacherously murdered American soldiers; that he was known to all in Siberia as a murderer and robber and that his crimes were unspeakable and that he is 'the greatest monster of modern times'."

New York, April 11.—General Gregorie Semenov, Ataman of Cossacks, who is free on bail following his arrest, on civil warrant issued at the request of the trustee for the Yurovets Home and Foreign Trading Company, a bankrupt New York concern, has put off his trip to Europe indefinitely and will remain until he has earned a "clean slate."

The General was emphatic in making that statement yesterday at the close of a bankruptcy hearing before Referee Olney.

Edward S. Greenbaum, counsel for the trustee, pointed out that the General's arrest came on a civil warrant only and that should he sail today he could not be brought back as a fugitive from justice.

In order to sail, however, the General would have to jump $25,000 bail bond.

The State Bank of Chita, a Russian institution was brought into the case yesterday when General Semenov was asked if he knew that a number of his officers had removed 1,250,000 rubles from the bank. While the question was not answered it produced a storm of protest, during which Edward W. Glass, counsel for the General, asserted that statements of witnesses at the bankruptcy hearing were being used as pawns on which to hang additional civil suits.

FESS SELECTS MANAGER FOR SENATE CAMPAIGN

Washington, April 11.—State Senator Harry R. Endley of Mansfield, will be manager for Rep. Simeon D. Fess in his campaign for the United States Senate. Endley is in consultation with Fess and the situation was gone over in detail. Headquarters of the Fess candidacy will be established at Columbus.

Auto Mechanic Tells Facts About Kidney and Bladder Trouble

"I have been using Balmwort Tablets for inflammation of the Bladder. I am a transmission builder and my work is very heavy, and I suffered a good deal of pain in my back, and had to pass water every few minutes and got very little sound sleep. I had to lay off work a good deal. Had this trouble over a year and tried everything in medicine, without benefit until a friend told me about Balmwort Tablets. I got six boxes and have used four and am feeling fine again, and no more getting up at all hours. I feel like a new man. Am 45, but feel like 25." Thus writes Mr. E. Lamb, 2611 Trumble Ave., Detroit, Mich. Balmwort Tablets should help any sufferer from deranged kidneys and bladder. Sold by druggists, two sizes, 60c and $1.25.

Death Rate Increases Much Faster After This Age is Reached.

To live to a ripe healthful old age is the desire of everyone—but signs of physical decay begin to appear when this age is reached. Weak, thin blood, rheumatism, constipation, indigestion, sour gassy stomach, weak kidneys, liver trouble and gall stones are symptoms that may appear.

Faulty and improper elimination of the poisonous wastes show that you must assist nature to relieve the system of these poison wastes otherwise your life is in danger.

People over 40 will find that Bulgarian Blood Tea, the famous vegetable family medicine taken once or twice a week will assist nature to cast the poisonous wastes from the system and help them to feel years younger.

Millions are now using this splendid vegetable blood and system tonic. Physicians and druggists knowing its effectiveness and purity never hesitate to recommend it.

SAVE Natural Gas

The Value of Natural Gas

In heat value, natural gas is worth twice the best artificial gas made commercially. Manufactured gas averages in Ohio about $1.50 per thousand feet. Natural gas averages below 50 cents.

Natural gas at that price costs one-sixth of the cost of manufactured.

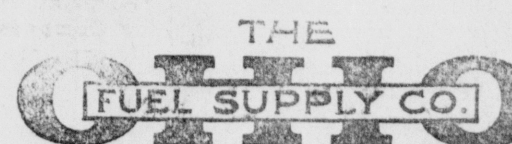

Roughly speaking, 8,000 feet of natural gas are about equal to one ton of the best coal. At an average cost of 50 cents the same amount of heat in coal will cost nearly twice as much besides the inconvenience and labor involved.

Then Why Waste It?

Nature took thousands of years to make natural gas. This generation will see the end of the supply if present methods with all their waste are continued.

You may not waste much yourself, but the ounce or so you lose now and then is irretrievably gone, and means that some one else will have to do without.

For the continuance of your own convenience, resolve to be careful to use wisely and waste not this valuable fuel.

MORE THAN HUNDRED BEDSIDE CASES ARE CARED FOR BY NURSE

One hundred and three bedside cases were cared for by Miss Helen Evers, Red Cross Public Health nurse during the month of March, according to the report submitted by Miss Evers, to the Executive Board of the Red Cross.

During the month 423 school children were inspected, according to the report, which shows that 104 visits were made, 15 being infant welfare, 10 visits to schools, 32 to school children, 12 nursing visits, and 22 other visits. The nurse made six public health talks during March.

Of the 423 school children inspected 224 had defective vision, 153 nasal obstruction, 196 defective tonsils, nine enlarged thyroid, 245 defective teeth, and 135 were seven per cent or more underweight. The children inspected included 40 of the Opportunity School and 70 of the Orient Hill School, in Xenia, and 46 of the Bellbrook High School, 267 of the Bowersville Centralized School.

Notices are sent to the parents calling attention to the defects and referring them to their family physician, dentist or oculist.

FOODY POST WILL HAVE BALL TEAM

Decision that Joseph P. Foody Post American Legion, will be represented by a baseball team the summer, was reached at a meeting of the organizations held Monday night.

Coch Jerry L. Katherman, of Central High School, who is a Legionaire, boosted the organization of a ball team in a short talk to members Monday night and the athletic committee of the organization was instructed to go ahead with plans for the formation of the nine.

Considerable new material was rounded up at the initial meeting for baseball purposes, and many former diamond stars have agreed to again don the uniform and covey as representatives of the Legion in the national pastime. Among these are Day, Pratt, Owens, Fuller, and others who are expected to show up when the first practice is called. Practice sessions will be announced on the bulletin board at the Legion rooms.

ANOTHER PETITION IN BANKRUPTCY FILED

Columbus, April 11.—Although a similar petition recently was dismissed, another petition, asking that the Pittsburgh Tin Plate and Steele corporation be declared bankrupt, has been filed in the federal court here by Edward A. Kraus, Jr., the United Steel and Supply company, F. A. Ensign, Inc., and Jennie B. Taylor, who claim they hold unsecured claims, aggregating $55,615.06 against the corporation.

The petition dismissed was drawn under another section of the federal bankruptcy act.

Jennie B. Taylor claims $47,681.04 she has for money loaned and held by her. She is the wife of tin C. Taylor former president of corporation who was sentenced to a prison term for illegal selling stock.

ARE CHAMPIONS OF GREENE COUNTY

Winning 19 out of 22 games Jamestown High School boys' basketball team attained an enviable record during the season recently closed, and then furnished a dramatic climax by winning the county championship at Antioch College for the first time in the history of the meeting that that school has come out on top.

With a wealth of material, including a number of seasoned veterans, the team started out auspiciously under the tutelage of Coach Ross Stoner and won 14 games before dropping one to Cedarville on the latter's floor. The Jamestown five won two games at the Ohio Wesleyan state tournament, Delaware, before eliminated by Lawrenceville and then won the county championship by defeating Cedarville, Bowersville and Beaver Creek High teams.

In Ferguson and Earley the team had a pair of forwards that made an exceptionally good offensive combination, with Ferguson seeing that his little running-mate got the ball, and the latter taking care of the shooting. Rockhold, at center was certain on the tip off, enabling his forwards to carry out their signals, while St. John and Burr, always presented an air tight defense. The team scored 670 points to 343 attained by opponents, and was only defeated by Cedarville, Lawrenceville and Xenia Central High Schools during the entire season.

The record follows: Jamestown 36, Caesar Creek 11; Jamestown 39, Os-

HOME FOR LEGION BEING TAKEN UP BY LOCAL POST

Plans for the erection or purchase of a permanent home for Joseph P. Foody Post, No. 95, American Legion, were discussed at a meeting of the organization held Monday night.

Dr. B. R. McClellan, chaplain of the post spoke to members present of the advantages of owning a permanent home, and urged concerted action toward pushing the building fund already established for the purpose of either erecting a building or buying a structure that could be converted into a home.

A proposal made some time ago, that the Legion attempt to purchase the chapel building of the Xenia Theological Seminary group on West Third street and convert it into a permanent home, was also discussed at the meeting Monday night. It is believed that building could be ideally adapted to the purposes of the Legion.

The Roberts Villa was also discussed as an ideal home for the Legion. When the building fund was started many members pledged amounts from their bonus money for that purpose. Some of these pledges are now being redeemed with the cash donations and post officers are urging that others follow suit.

FOUR DANCING FEET

BY JANE PHELPS

A BATTLE OF WITS CHAPTER 15

"Well, Gert, what'd Rosenberg want of you, last night?" Lilly asked as they left the house together. She had gone to supper with a young man while Gertie was talking with the proprietor.

"Wants to give me a raise," Gertie said dryly.

"Not that, I know, yet. He had a paper for me to sign, but I didn't sign it, I told him I'd tell him tonight."

"I wonder will he raise me too? I know I can't dance quite as good as you, and I ain't near so pretty, but I keep the fellows jollied along buyin' things and all that."

"I expect, he will—Say, Lilly, do you suppose we dance well enough now to get a chance in a well a nice place, one what has sweller,—no, better customers?"

"I dunno! Ain't ever thought about it. We done pretty well to get in there. No swell clothes nor nothing."

"I guess clothes for big places do cost a lot." Gertie's voice was wistful. She would like to dance where a different class of people saw her, not the rough kind that came to Rosenberg's every night. Once, a long time before, a young man had taken her and Lilly into one of the big Broadway places on their way home. To him it had been just a lark; to the two girls a revelation.

All the time Gertie was dancing, or passing around between the crowded tables chatting with the customers—a part of her job as she knew but a part she hated—her mind was on Tom, his failure to write. Up to this time she had scolded herself for expecting a letter so soon. But tonight something, Lilly had said came back to her; could she be right? Was Tom like that—like the others?

"They all say they'll write, but they all have good forgetters," Lilly had told her. "It's like the fellow what says 'I'll see you again soon, without sayin' when Alljosin' Gertie, and sure fake when they is like your Tom—that swell kind."

Sorry comfort!

"Well, going to sign the paper now?" Rosenberg beamed on Gertie. Tonight Lilly had promised to wait and go home with her; in return she had said she would speak to Rosenberg about giving Lilly a raise too.

"We come together, we're chums and he ought to treat us alike," Lilly had said.

"I shan't sign the paper till I read it, every word of it. Like Jennie told me and if I think anything's crooked I'll pretend I want to show it to ma and let Jennie take it to her teacher," Gertie said to herself before answering Rosenberg's question.

He pushed the paper across the table to her.

Nonchalantly Gertie picked it up. She never had seen, let alone read a legal document, of any kind. The terms puzzled her. The amount she was to get, and one other thing in the paper was clear to her—that is she thought it was—though she understood it. She was to have the raise for five years if she did all right, and was on hand all the time.

Five years—Jennie was 12, she would be most through High School—yes, she would be through. Jennie was smart. Gertie nibbled the point of the pen. It would be good to know they were safe for five years. Ma would be pleased. Poor ma—she worked so hard!

As all this ran through Gertie's mind she had been looking at the paper. Glancing up she caught Rosenberg's eyes fixed upon her with something in their depths she didn't understand; never had seen there before. A sort of cunning eagerness. She didn't, couldn't analyze the expression but it made her halt.

Jennie's teacher had said if there was anything one didn't understand in a paper not to sign it. There was lots in that paper Gertie didn't understand. Suddenly she decided. She laid the pen down.

"I'll take the paper home and show it to ma. Of course she ain't educated, but I never do anything without asking her." Someway she felt it best not to mention Jennie, or her teacher.

"That ain't necessary," now his eyes looked angry—why? "It's only givin' you a nice raise, but we has to have the papers signed showin' we both agree. I might go back on my word and not pay you. That paper binds me; makes me pay you."

"I'll show it to ma, and sign it tomorrow night," stubbornly answered Gertie. Something warned her he was too anxious.

"Oh, very well! But there's a chance I might change my mind you know," he replied sarcastically yet not much worried, after all she had said her mother wasn't educated, and he knew nothing of Jennie or her teacher.

Tomorrow—Gertie is Advised.

Thousands have asked us for this yeast

Yeast Foam Tablets contain none of the bulky ingredients necessary in baking yeasts; unlike many "vitamin" preparations, they contain no drugs; they are made entirely of pure whole yeast

When scientific men revealed to the world the remarkable tonic properties they had discovered in yeast, doctors and laymen everywhere urged us to give them what they called an ideal yeast.

Finding many serious objections to the yeasts then available, they demanded a product that would keep; that was easy to take; that would not cause gas nor belching; that was free from drugs; and that was tested and proved to have a high and uniform vitamin content.

After two years' study of yeast therapy, in which we were assisted by a half-dozen noted physiological experts, we met the demands with Yeast Foam Tablets.

Endorsed by highest authorities

That many cases of vague ill health, commonly called "run down" conditions, can be overcome simply by eating pure yeast (such as Yeast Foam Tablets) is the conclusive and significant statement of no less an authority than the London "Lancet"—probably the foremost medical and scientific publication in the world.

Builds up resistance to disease

These run-down conditions, which almost every one experiences from time to time, are indicated by the familiar signs of failing strength and endurance, sluggishness, nervousness and lowered state of vitality that makes us such easy victims of colds and other more serious infections.

Every one, in such cases, should take every precaution to build up their physical and nerve forces, not only for the sake of better mental and bodily health, but so they will be able to resist the disease germs that are everywhere present.
